A little boy was playing in his sandbox on a Saturday morning. While he was building roads and houses in the soft sand, he discovered a large stone in the middle of the sandbox.

The little boy pushed and pulled, but every time he thought he had made some progress, the stone tipped(倾斜) and then fell back into the sandbox. The little boy tried his best, but his only reward(回报) was to have the stone roll back.

Finally the boy cried. All that time the boy's father watched him from living room window. At the moment tears fell, his father came to the boy and the sandbox. Gently but surely he said, "Son, why didn't you use all the strength that you had?" The boy said sadly, "But I did, daddy, I did! I used all the strength that I had!" "No, son," corrected the father kindly. "You didn't ask me." With that, the father reached down, picked up the stone and removed it from the sandbox.

The following are some tips for becoming a successful businessman by Michael Bloomberg. They are based on his experience of building a company from the ground up, leading New York City as mayor(市长), and so on.

Take risks

Life is too short to spend your time avoiding failure.

In 1981, at the age of 39, I lost my job. The next day I took a big risk and began my own company. In 2001, when I was debating whether to run for mayor, most people advised me not to do it. But one person said, " If you can imagine yourself giving a concession(败选) speech, then why not go for it?" That was the best advice I received, and I followed it.

In order to succeed, you must first be willing to fail and you must have the courage to go for it anyway.

Make your own luck

Luck plays a part in success. The harder you work, the luckier you get.

Whatever you choose to do, even if it's not the job of your dreams, always work hard at it. Be the first person at work in the morning and the last to leave at night. Hard work creates chances.

Never stop learning

The most powerful word in English language is "why". There is nothing so powerful as an open, inquiring mind(探究精神). Whatever field you choose for starting a business—be a lifelong student.

Give back

You are responsible for your success and failure, but you only succeed if you share the reward with others.

My first donation was a $5 check to my alma mater(母校). And while the checks may be bigger today, they come with the same spirit.

You don't have to be wealthy to give back. You can give back by giving your time and talents.

56. In this passage, Michael Bloomberg is the name of a _____.
A. company B. place C. person D. newspaper
57. What did the writer do at the age of 59?
A. He lost his job. B. He ran for mayor.
C. He set up a company. D. He became a teacher.

58. From the passage, we can infer that the writer _____.
A. is lucky all the time.　　B. seldom cares about others.
C. is a young mayor.　　D. is a hard-working man.
59. Which of the following isn't mentioned in the tips?
A. Failure is the mother of success.
B. It's never too old to learn.
C. Money is everything.
D. Luck comes from hard work.
60. In which of the following columns can you find the article?
A. Experience Sharing.　　B. Interesting stories.
C. Family life.　　D. Adventures.

Have you ever seen the movie Big Hero 6? Baymax(大白) is a main character in the movie. He's a friendly big robot that looks after people's health. If there is a robot like Baymax in our real life, people will get more benefits. The robot will be especially helpful in caring for the old. The health of old people needs greater monitoring(监测) and care.

Scientists in America are now working to make Baymax a reality. Actually they have already produced some health care robots. These robots provide brain video games to improve people's memory. The games can help the old remember things for longer. Besides, these provide special apps (应用程序)to help the old manage their health at home. The apps can check the old people's heart rate (心率) and tell them to take their medicine on time. The apps can also record their daily activities. Such collected information helps doctors discover the cause of an illness faster and more correctly. But the health care robots aren't as clever as Baymax yet.

Nowadays scientists are working on improving the health care robots. They hope the robots can produce electricity by walking across the floor. If they succeed, batteries (电池) will not be needed. They also hope the robots communicate with humans in the daily life so as to make people happier and healthier.

Scientists are trying to realize these dreams. Like Baymax, these health care robots
